Photographs of the following individuals were shown to []

Ronald W. Jarrett, FBI number 114159

After reviewing these photographs, [] remarked that they were guys from the Bridgeport neighborhood. When asked to elaborate on these individuals, [] stated that they had a reputation of being burglars. He then pointed to the photograph of [] and reiterated that []

[] was then asked if Ronald Jarrett ever did business or was observed at Marina Cartage. [] stated that he could not recall observing or doing business with Ronald Jarrett.

[] the referred to the photographs previously furnished to him and stated, "I don't have to hang around those guys....I don't have to steal....I have three jobs and make more than enough money." [] added that he owns [] and works part-time with []

[] was then told that the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) is in possession of reliable information that the burglars used the stolen truck in question to transport stolen safes in and out of the Marina yard. He was further advised that the burglars also used garage space inside the Marina yard to open the safes.

b7c

[] denied any knowledge of the above and stated that the burglars would never have had access into the Marina yard because he [] had the only key to the entrance gates and that any attempt to enter the Marina buildings would trigger the ADT alarm system. [] added that the garage stalls located to the rear of the Marina dock-building complex were also usually occupied by parked Marina trucks. [] further remarked that he was not aware of any unauthorized entries made into the Marina yard during the time in question.

[] was then asked to pinpoint the location where the stolen truck in question was usually parked. He stated that the truck was parked in the southern part of the yard near City Wide Pallets. [] added that City Wide Pallets is a business not associated with Marina Cartage, but is located on Marina Cartage's property.

[redacted] advised [redacted] Marina
Cartage, Incorporated, the warehouse facility, garage and parking area which encompasses Marina and a business known as City Wide Pallets. [redacted] said [redacted] these properties is currently under litigation based on the [redacted] was then furnished with a Chicago Police Bulletin #262 dated September 19, 1979, which contained photographs of known and suspected commercial supermarket burglars, burglar tools and a truck bearing a sign "WR 24 Hour Tire Service, Alsip, Illinois." He was then asked if he had any knowledge concerning this truck and/or photos of the men depicted thereon.

[redacted] advised he had previously seen this bulletin, either at his part-time employment [redacted]
[redacted] or from a policeman in the Bridgeport neighborhood.

[redacted] said he is now aware that the truck depicted in the Police Bulletin was utilized by burglars and is the same vehicle stored at his facility, Marina Cartage, which also houses City Wide Pallets. [redacted] further advised he knew the but had never seen them in or with the truck in question either

[] further advised that Marina Cartage was in possession of a rental lease agreement which subject or subjects unknown to [] executed in order that they be allowed to use the Marina property. [] said he believed

[] Catherine Bertucci handled this lease agreement and steadfastly denied any knowledge of same.

When questioned by Bureau Agent as to why the Rental Lease application in the name of [] appeared to be an apartment lease application, and why no Marina Cartage official's name appeared thereon, [] could not answer.

A copy of this lease application in the name of [] was furnished to the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) by []

Further, at the request of Bureau Agent, [] also supplied a copy of a Garage Lease in the name of [] doing business as (dba) Bridgeport Welding. [] said to his knowledge, these are the only two rental leases ever issued by Marina Cartage, and that both of these leases cover garage rental spaces.

When questioned by Bureau Agent as to why the [] garage lease appeared on a legitimate leasing form and was executed by a Marina Cartage official, and the [] lease was not, [] said he could not answer.

Further, [] was then confronted with the fact that during a previous contact, he did not mention that the person renting yard space for the stolen truck in question also leased garage space from Marina Cartage, and in fact, also denied previously that the truck could ever have been in his garages at all. [] was then advised that his omission was particularly glaring because Bureau Agents previously stated that the burglars utilizing the stolen truck used same to transport safes and allegedly opened several in [] own garages.

[] at this point became belligerent and remarked that he was only telling Bureau Agents what he felt he had to. [] refused to elaborate further regarding this statement.

4 guilty of '79 break-in at Homewood food store

By Hanke Gratteau

Four reputed underworld figures were found guilty on reduced charges Wednesday in a case growing out of a 1979 break-in at a Jewel food store in suburban Homewood.

The four, originally charged with burglary and conspiracy, were found guilty by Criminal Court Judge Arthur J. Cieslik at the end of a three-day bench trial on the following charges:

- Sam Ciancio, 52, of 3327 S. Lituanica, attempted burglary and possession of burglary tools.
- Joseph Vitale, 44, of 2631 S. Lowe, possession of burglary tools.
- Philip Lazarro, 41, of 247 W. 31st, conspiracy and possession of burglary tools.
- Thomas Beebe, 44, of 4600 S. Halsted, attempted burglary and possession of burglary tools.

Sentencing was set for Nov. 19.

Assistant State's Attorney Joseph Claps said the four men were arrested as a result of a Chicago police surveillance, with aid from Homewood police.

The four drilled a hole in the roof of the store at 3153 W. 183rd, Homewood, in an effort to get to a safe containing an $80,000 payroll.

They fled before entering the premises when they became aware of the police presence, Claps said.

Ronald Brown, 32, of Cicero, also arrested after the break-in, was a chief prosecution witness against his former cohorts, who were described by investigators as members of a burglary gang headed by Ronald Jarrett.
